Davis Leather Seem To Have Something On Ball

SPECIALTY CALLS IN BIG BANKER TO SAVE CALAMITY

Davis Leather hardballers were good enough to club out their fourth successive win in the Newmarket hardball league on Thursday evening. This time their opponents were the Office Specialty nine, arch-rivals from the south end. The final score of the game was 10-6.

The leathermen started off in the first inning, when two hits and four walks enabled them to tally four runs. They came back with four more in the second, one in the third, six in the fourth and one in the fifth. The Specialty got two in the first, one in the second, one in the third and two in the fourth.

Bob Peters started and finished the game for the tanners. Bill the Specialty but he was driven to Hopper started on the mound for the showers in the first inning. Mel Ruddock was next and he was soon driven to cover.

Gene Broughton then took over the flinging. His fate was little better than Ruddock's or Hopper's, although he lasted till early in the fourth inning.

The Specialty band of strategy then tried out a new man. He was Kenneth Flett, Bank of Montreal accountant. For an old-timer he showed a fair turn of speed and a beautiful curve ball. He should be an asset to the last-place Specialty outfit before the season is through.

The leathermen also took advantage of a chance to try out some new players. Their two rookies were pressed into action to make up for the loss of Herb Cain and "Shorty" Turan. Cain was absent due to a tonsils operation. After

The tanners showed two youngsters in Tom McHale and Laurie Cotton. This young fellow Cotton looks like the rookie find of the season.

New Site For Dump Asked By Ontario Health Department

Mayor Would Build Incinerator, Town Council
Told Materials Are Not Obtainable Now

Condition of the municipal garbage dump on Queen St. was the occasion of a special meeting of the town council on Monday evening.

This action was taken after Dr. J. H. Wesley, M.O.H., received a report from Dr. A. E. Berry, director, sanitary engineering division, Ontario department of health. Dr. Berry enclosed a report made by Inspector G. A. H. Burn and stated: "It is obvious that action should be taken on this situation without delay."

Dr. Berry arranged the inspection following receipt of a complaint from an unnamed citizen.

"A caretaker is employed by the municipality to keep the dump in proper condition," said the inspector's report. "This man's duties are to see that the dumped material is levelled off, objectionable material properly buried and the whole kept suitably covered."

"An inspection of the dump indicated that sufficient care is not being exercised to maintain it in a proper condition. The filled portion over which the trucks must pass to dump their loads was very uneven. The face of the dump, where dumping is presently being carried on, is 12 or 15 feet high and the dumped material was starting to encroach on the Holland river."

"There was a considerable area of exposed material, indicating that covering operations are not being carried on as they should be. There had been a fire in the dump recently and this was still smoldering. It was apparent also that the dump is infested with rats. No exposed dead animals were seen but there was a small quantity of meat scraps and bones which had apparently been dumped on the day of the inspection."

"It is highly desirable that action be taken by the municipality at an early date to secure another site for a garbage and refuse dump," the inspector reported. "The construction of an incinerator is also desirable but in view of existing conditions it might be advisable to defer this until after the war."

Recommendations were: "1. The municipal dumping grounds be cleaned up, levelled and proper cover provided for dumped material. 2. Periodic inspection be made by responsible local officials to see that the caretaker is performing his duties in a satisfactory manner. 3. Serious consideration be given to the early establishment of the dumping grounds at a more suitable location."

Dr. J. H. Wesley attended the meeting and reported: "1. The most objectionable complaint is, as it always has been, the unfortunate location. 2. The place is so full that it is impossible to get sufficient covering for the garbage. 3. The garbage is at present filling in the stream to the east. There is quite sufficient nuisance from the town sewage entering this stream and we should be on the alert to see that there is no further dumping into the stream, for there will come a time in the near future when this will have to be taken care of."

"4. Fires at the dump are avoidable."

Dr. Wesley recalled that in 1940 the board of health "held an option for the purchase of a new site, where it was the intention of building an incinerator, but the project fell through. At the present time we need a new location and an incinerator, but while the war lasts we must try to take a little more trouble to give better satisfaction with the old one."

"Dr. Wesley recommended that there should be water provided at the dump to put out fires and that a new caretaker should be engaged."

"The situation at the dump is an annual headache," said Mayor Dr. L. W. Dales in opening the meeting.

Councillor Wm. Dixon, chairman of the town property committee, reported on the visit of the inspector. "I was down there tonight and there were three fires," said Mr. Dixon. "Three men could put them out in a couple of hours."

Councillor Joseph Vale asked if Arthur Pegg, the caretaker, were there. Mr. Dixon said that he was.

Mayor Dr. L. W. Dales asked how much coverage the town provided. Mr. Dixon said that there "wasn't any there tonight."

"Who is the caretaker responsible to?" asked Mr. Vale. "Crowder, but Crowder has too much to do," said Mr. Dixon. "The fires will be put out tomorrow. We must face the fact that an incinerator is needed."

"That was agreed on three years ago," said Dr. Wesley.

Dr. Dales said that both the method of gathering the garbage and the method of disposal were out of date. "We are paying as much for looking after the garbage as we would for interest on debentures. Personal cleanliness is no use, if there isn't municipal cleanliness. I am sure that the people of this town would pass an incinerator debenture by an overwhelming majority, war or no war."

Mr. Dixon said that the town had secured an estimate some years ago that an incinerator would cost two or three thousand dollars. "It would cost two or three times that today," said Mr. Dixon.

"If it cost $15,000 we would be ahead of the game," said Dr. Dales.

The present caretaker's salary is $18 a week and cost of living bonus, it was stated. The council agreed that the town should engage a new caretaker, and that the present caretaker is not doing an efficient job.

"Are you still in favor of the present method of disposal?" Dr. Dales asked Dr. Wesley.

"We have to be," said Dr. Wesley. "We can't get materials for an incinerator."

Councillor A. V. Higginson asked if dumping was being allowed in Widdfield park. Mr. Dixon said that the military camp had been given permission to dump clean fill there but had started dumping other materials, and permission had been withdrawn. Mr. Dixon said that the military camp was using the Queen St. dump. He thought that the camp should provide its own dump.

Dr. Dales said that the camp could put ashes in Widdfield park. "Some day an automobile is going to go over the bank there," said Dr. Dales.

HI HELICOPTER!

An Orillia police court has fined a Richmond Hill man because he put one hand up to start or fix his automobile windshield wiper and lost control of his car. He went off the road and damaged his car. There was no other car involved or endangered. If there were passengers, they weren't injured.

If another car or a pedestrian had been present and had been damaged or injured, the error of the erring driver would have been the cause, and there would be a possible case against him even at common law. In the absence of damage or injury to someone else, there is merely an unnecessary statutory offence—costing money to enforce, and, in our opinion, doing no particular good. When there is no one else injured or affected, the driver (who hasn't been drinking or reckless) who has an accident is sufficiently punished by the damage to his own car, the inconvenience to himself, and the injury or shock to himself. He doesn't need a police court to tell him he has made a mistake. He needs a towing-truck to pull his car out of the ditch and a little sympathy.

If there are motor-cars there are bound to be accidents. If we are going to fine a man for having an accident inconveniencing or injuring or causing damage to no one but the driver of the car, we might just as well start fining woodsmen who cut themselves with an axe (for they might have cut someone else) and fliers who crash-land their planes after running out of gasoline.

When we all have aeroplanes, or helicopters, the air's traffic police are going to have a busy time catching up with careless drivers. We can picture an ivory-colored plane going into a nose-dive to catch up with some tail-spinning joy-ride. Or perhaps the air constable will have a radio device which will be able to read the careless flier's license number.

THERE CAN BE NO GOING BACK

We wish we could honestly think that all we need do after this war, in order to ensure that there be no more wars, would be to "sit on" Germany firmly and permanently and remove all restrictions from business to give "free enterprise" a chance to create employment and prosperity and abundance for all. Few people can accept that simple and so frequently offered two-point program as a complete post-war plan.

These two recipes for a peaceful and prosperous world are being pushed and promoted, but we don't believe that they will get to third base. The "sit-on-Germany" program, as a solution of the international world order problem, has fairly wide acceptance but it doesn't provide any method of maintaining order among the sitters. The give-business-its-head program, we gather, hasn't the approval of any of our Canadian political parties.

The C.C.F. would not only have the state own banks, insurance companies and probably trust companies, and "basic industry," which would include mining, but would have a "planned economy," that is, have the state plan the volume of production of both privately-owned and publicly-owned business. The state would maintain a control over business to eliminate competition. There would be only one dairy, and that perhaps municipally owned, in a small municipality. There would not be half a dozen different bread companies selling bread along the same street. Farmers would still operate their own farms, but they would be told what to produce, in order to avoid too much of one product and too little of another. This is being done to some extent today.

The Liberal party, in its war-time program, is not so far behind the C.C.F. as some people seem to think. The Liberal government has gone a long way toward a planned economy, and should it continue in power after the war it is not likely to move back toward the scheme of things that permitted a depression. The present government pays western farmers for summer-fallowing land that was previously in wheat, that is, it encourages them to renew the fertility of the soil and discourages them from contributing further to the wheat surplus. It subsidizes them for producing feed grains instead of wheat. It controls prices and wages. It announces public ownership of the airways. It contemplates a system of social security which would help the individual, it is said, "from the cradle to the grave."

And what about the Progressive-Conservative party? Is it likely, if given power, to turn the clock backward, to take the controls off business? Canada's theoretically conservative party is committed to the provision of a job for everyone, a fair return to the farmer, and "the right of every citizen to security against loss of income arising from accident, sickness, loss of employment, old age and other disability."

This political party, representative of all kinds and classes of people, but traditionally the most conservative of our parties, met together and recognized the "right of private enterprise to a fair return on the investment it risks," and the "right of future generations to a world of plenty" and to a "world of peace." But it didn't for one moment declare in favor of a return to laissez-faire. The old system was unable to avoid sharp and cruel depressions, and so the old party was not prepared to let the competitive system bear full responsibility for prosperity.

This party did not give specific details as to how it would provide jobs for all, but it gave a few hints. First, it would give private enterprise an opportunity to provide jobs by recognizing the right of private enterprise to "a fair return on the investment it risks." Then it would see that men have incomes whether or not they have health or employment. Their spending will help to keep the wheels going.

There is another hint in "a recognition by the public of the right of the state to exact by a fair system of taxation the funds necessary to meet the services required of the state." One of these services is the provision of a job for everyone. So that a Progressive-Conservative government would collect taxes to pay for public works to provide jobs for those that private enterprise couldn't look after.

There is also the announced intention to "disencumber society from the barriers to world trade, world progress and world peace." No doubt these barriers include tariffs. Thus we find the Progressive-Conservative party announcing that it will no longer protect Canadian industry, that it will let other countries ship us their manufactures if they can produce better or more cheaply than we can and that we will specialize in the things, including farm products, that we can produce more cheaply than they can. Is that what this Winnipeg plank means?

How much relief can there be from heavy taxation? How could a Progressive-Conservative government carry Canada's war debt, carry its own announced program of social security, jobs for all, a fair income for the farmer, and reduce taxation substantially?

Here is yet another spending responsibility assumed by the Progressive-Conservatives, and rightly assumed, we would say: "The right of every child and youth to equal opportunity to the maximum education suited to its capacity that the state can provide." The Ontario Liberal government has made a commendable start in this direction in providing 333 scholarships this year for grade XII students who would not be able to afford to go on with their education without this help.

The world is changing. We are feeling our way toward a fairer and better social and economic system. The boys and girls who receive state aid with their education will contribute to the future welfare of us all. And be it remembered that every student who goes to university—even though he pays all his own fees and expenses—is receiving public aid. No student pays the full cost of his university education.

There is recognition in that Progressive-Conservative determination to "disencumber society from the barriers to world trade, world progress and world peace" that this war started not just with a Hitler but with world-wide economic conditions that threw up protective tariffs in some countries and dictators in others. There is little encouragement here for the sit-on-Germany theory of world peace.

The world is changing, and changing for the better, and we are all having a little share in it. We are changing our institutions and our thoughts and possibly we are changing our hearts a little bit for the better.

FREE ADVICE

Hon. Eric Cross' provincial advice bureau for municipal post-war planning may or may not be welcomed. It is another little provincial expenditure, an increase in the cost of government, and advice may be unwelcome to some municipalities. However, such a bureau should be of definite help. It should stimulate each municipality to planning its future. Newmarket, for instance, will inevitably become bigger. How much cheaper it would be if we sat down now and planned the streets and the parks and the shopping districts and the parking-places we will inevitably need.

A bigger town isn't necessarily a better town. In fact, a good deal of foresight and planning may be necessary to avoid a bigger town—which is probably inevitable—being a less pleasant and convenient place in which to live.

Of People And Things

POSTSCRIPTS
By Isabel Inglis Colville

It has been said—and I leave it to each woman to judge of its truth—that a woman's postscript is the most important part of her letter.

I don't exactly understand why a woman, if she has a piece of welcome or startling news, or an important question to ask, or a problem demanding consultation, should leave any of these till her letter is finished, and then tack it on like a bit of superfluous trimming.

I say I don't know WHY it's done, but I do know that it is done, for after having signed, sealed and addressed a letter, and even on the way to the mail box I've thought of the ONE thing that made that particular letter a little different from its predecessor and have had to turn back, open the letter, add a seemingly inadequate postscript, re-seal and send it on its way, always a little doubtful as to whether it is stamped and re-addressed properly in the hurry.

However, postscripts are a necessity and can be used to advantage, and this is one of those times, for I have still a little to write of the district annual.

When the correspondence was read, there were several resolutions, but only one of these could be adopted as it was the only one which was signed. I believe all resolutions should be signed by the president and secretary of the Institute from which it emanates.

The one adopted was from Union Street and stressed the need of our boys and girls in the army, navy and air force for free transportation when on furlough. Personally, I'm all for this resolution. I think, considering the very modest pay which any branch of the service receives, that it is almost a necessity. If anyone gets a furlough and has a long trip to make to his destination, most of his pay is used up and a holiday with no funds is a pretty ghastly affair.

Votes of thanks were tendered to the board and caretaker of the United church and a slight monetary remuneration for its use and preparation. Votes of thanks were also tendered Miss Hopkins and Mrs. Reid, the speakers from the department and the federation board, and to the two branches which contributed the music for the day.

And so, with the singing of the national anthem, another district annual found its way into the gallery of pleasant things that are past.

Now here's another postscript! A P.P.S.—There was an exceedingly interesting display put on by the wartime prices and trade board. This was in Miss Lenore Starr's jurisdiction.

Now, having demonstrated the fact that women DO use postscripts, and to advantage, where necessity arises, I'll go and rescue Candy, who seems determined to commit suicide by frying himself in the sun.

From all about me, from every open door and window comes the perfume of peonies and heliotrope and the glow of many colored irises and red lilies, so what is so sweet as a day in June?

TO THE EDITOR

Editor, The Era and Express: As a member of the C.C.F. party and a candidate in the forthcoming election, I wish to congratulate you on the excellent editorial, "Economic Democracy," which appeared in your last issue. You quite rightly point out that the municipalities south of Richmond Hill would not now have an electric railway service had its operation been left to private enterprise. It would have been abandoned in the depression years the moment it became unprofitable (i.e., unprofitable to the stockholders no matter how profitable it might be to the people in the municipalities served).

The trouble with "private enterprise" is that it has become so private that there is no room left for the little man at all. Three packing firms control the industry. They and their like will continue to dictate to the farmer until they themselves are controlled in the interests of the farmer and consumer.

And what small merchant has not been victimized by the ruthless methods of the big combines and financial institutions? Why did the banks curtail his credit in those years when he needed it most? On a profit basis they were powerless to help him in his hour of need. Only a national bank with national interests in view can undertake the stimulation of business at a time when there are no profits!

With an election impending, it is only to be expected that powerful interests will attempt to misrepresent the aims of the C.C.F. party, as does the article reprinted from the "Bowmanville Canadian Statesman." But the people of Ontario will not be misled again. They are beginning to see that their real enemy is the powerful monopolies which will grow daily bigger and more ruthless unless controlled. It is their exorbitant profit that must be curtailed so that a fairer share will find its way into the pocket of the farmer and the small merchant. They have been victimized by powerful vested interests too long.

As you so ably put it, "The C.C.F. is providing the ideas and creating the public demand for these changes, just as the Charlatans, the Radicals, and the Labor party have done in Britain." I believe that the public demand thus created will show that a large percentage of the voters who have supported the two old parties in the past have now come to realize that the C.C.F. is the only party that is willing to bring down legislation that will give them a square deal in their struggle for a decent standard of living.

Yours truly,

Editor, The Era and Express: I quite agree with your two editorials in the issue of the 17th and was very glad to see them.

Socialism can never be worked out successfully with "human nature" as it is. We would have to do away with selfishness, and if we were able to do that, there would be no need of socialism.

I am enclosing a comment from the "Globe & Mail" that I prized highly enough to have about 200 copies made.

I have always thought when 3,000 miles quoted as the border-line, that it was much nearer 4,000.

I wrote Ottawa a few days ago and these are figures which one in a thousand do not know. (The border-line between Canada and the United States proper is 3,987 miles, between Canada and Alaska 1,640 miles, total 5,627 miles.)

Your item in regard to Geo. Irvine and his horses pleased me, and I have sent a copy to his mother in Vancouver.

Meat Coupons

The law provides that book-holders, when purchasing meat must surrender at the time of purchase to the seller, valid meat Coupons. It is, therefore, illegal for merchants to issue, or book-holders to accept, I.O.U.'s or any form of credit slip or token for meat for later supply. In other words, if the purchase of meat does not equal the full Coupon value, small balances must be either ignored or taken in such easy "make weight" items as sausages, hamburger, etc.

Removal of Coupons

While it is illegal for anyone to present loose Coupons when purchasing rationed goods, the law allows the book holder to remove Coupons in the presence of the merchant or his employee. This practice may be preferable when purchasing meat. It not only assists the merchant but may prevent your ration book from becoming soiled.

Ask Any Coffee Lover

THESE days it is doubly important to get really good coffee for your precious ration coupons. Maxwell House is tops, as any coffee lover will tell you, because:

1. It's blended from the very finest coffees available—each chosen for its own special quality of flavor, body or fragrance.
2. This fine blend is roasted uniformly by a special process that captures all its fragrant, smooth, coffee goodness.

For wartime reasons Maxwell House is now packed in bags—in an All Purpose Grind and at a lower cost to you. This new grind is suitable for all ways of making coffee—coffee-pot, percolator or glass coffee-maker. If using a glass coffee-maker you may want to brew the coffee a little longer.

A Symbol of POWER

IN PEACE AND WAR

Day and night, throughout Ontario, electrical energy travels with the silence and speed of light. Hydro-Electric generating stations are its source, thousands of miles of transmission lines are its highways, Ontario homes, farmsteads and factories are its destinations. In our Province, wherever supplies and tools of war are in the making, Hydro electricity keeps wheels turning at wartime speed.

The need for Hydro power has vastly increased. Though freight and planning from the birth of Hydro, in program has been one of progress and expansion! Today, 90% of Ontario's industries are electrified. Where plants are built or enlarged, Hydro supplies low-cost electricity to light buildings and to power machines. Conservation of this vital element in non-essential industry, in homes and in offices will permit Hydro to meet every wartime emergency.

The familiar transmission towers... symbols of Hydro power are constant reminders of the men whose organized effort makes Hydro service possible. There is a round-the-clock, round-the-season duty... fair weather and foul... in peace and war.

Electricity is the tireless servant of mankind. After the war, in the city, on the farms and in industry, Hydro will be needed—and available—in increased measure to make human tasks lighter and lives brighter.

LIQUOR EXPENDITURES SAID TO HINDER WAR

"In the midst of war we are spending in Canada $260,000,000 to $300,000,000 a year on liquor," said Rev. W. A. Westcott, Wesley United church, Vaudor, at Trinity United church, Newmarket, on Sunday morning.

"It is money wasted and it is hampering the war effort," said Mr. Westcott. "People want to be outdoers in this war. You would expect to see people flocking to the churches at this time, but there is no evidence of it. They want to go to the lake on Sundays. Nothing is to interfere with their pleasures."

Mr. Westcott asked for a new attitude toward other races. "Hitler's father's name was Schickelgruber. That was his father's mother's name. His father's father's name was Rothschild - a Jew. Yet the Nazis are persecuting the Jews, so that they may have a pure race."

Mr. Westcott criticized the Canadian attitude toward Chinese residents of this country.

Mr. Westcott has accepted a call to Fiesherton.

FATS URGENTLY NEEDED TO MAKE EXPLOSIVES

(By Newmarket Boy Scouts Association)

Not the bitter cold of Russia, not the intense heat of north Africa, not the jungles of the southern Pacific, nor the fogs of Attu have deterred United Nations' fighting men from their path of duty and conquest; nor will Hitler's European fortress when the zero hour comes for invasion.

Thus can we Canadians on the home front be satisfied with any halfhearted effort in saving fats to produce vital glycerine for explosives and other materials for our war industries to back the attack of our fighting men?

The coming of warmer weather brings added difficulties in the saving of fats in households, because melted fats lose most of their glycerine content. But these difficulties must be overcome or Canada's campaign to save 35 million pounds of waste fats this year will fail.

Scrap fats can be rendered "the next time the oven is heated" and any kind of wide-mouthed can may be used for saving dripping fat.

During summer months, if proper storage facilities to prevent spoiling are not available, fats should be delivered to your butcher shop, or telephone Mr. Budd at 441 and arrangements will be made for collection.

No amount of dripping fat is too small to save. The objective bulk is large, but broken down, it means each housewife is asked to save only a tablespoon of fat each day.

The salvage collection of June 19 resulted in the collection of 90 pounds of fat, 500 pounds of rubber, 1,000 pounds of metal and 11,000 pounds of paper and rags. No further collection will be made until early fall, but in the meantime householders are asked to save all salvage materials for the next collection. Paper and rags are again on the urgent list, so please tie them up and save them for salvage.

NEWMARKET MAN WINS HIGH PRAISE AT AJAX

Praise to Geo. A. Kaus, paint-shop foreman in Defence Industries Ltd., Ajax, and his "shift," came recently from his superintendent, Mr. Kaus, whose home is in Newmarket. Is a former Office Specialty Co. employee.

Superintendent W.D. MacKenzie wrote: "Your shift on line No. 1 has achieved a remarkable record. Up until June 1, 1943, when a new contest started, 'A' shift had gone 335 consecutive days without a lost time injury. That is a record of which you and all the members of your shift have every reason to be proud, particularly in view of what it means to the men overseas. We know that is your chief concern."

"Just what is the significance of the achievement of 'A' shift? Well, last year in Canada lost-time injuries caused a loss of time of a year's work for 6,000 people. Put another way, one plant the size of Pickering would have to stay idle the entire year to pay Canada's bill for lost-time injuries. That terrible waste would have been avoided, if all the industries of Canada had done as well as you have."

Mr. Kaus has been at Ajax two years.

War Telephone Calls
Will Receive Priority

"In order to meet the situation created by the steadily mounting volume of long distance telephone calls, a system of priorities becomes effective on July 1," C. E.
Blois, Bell Telephone Co. manager, Newmarket, stated this week.

"This step is being taken to assure speedy completion of calls for essential purposes."

"The use of priorities on war-urgent long distance telephone calls simply permits calls vital to the war effort to obtain preferred handling when lines are crowded.
"Since priorities will be used only in cases of greatest emergency, there will be no undue interference with long distance service to the general public," said Mr. Blois.

"Although the average speed of out-of-town telephone connections has been pretty well maintained, there have been some delays during busy hours to and from important war centres. Because of the necessity for conserving critical materials, it is no longer possible to extend long distance facilities to keep pace with the increasing volume of calls."

"Therefore, the long distance priority plan establishes procedures whereby urgent war messages may obtain preferred handling. The use of priorities is confined to persons charged with responsibilities relating directly to the war program, such as government officials, the armed forces, war organizations, and agencies essential to public health and safety. Not all calls placed by these persons will be entitled to priority treatment, but only those which require immediate completion for national defence or to safeguard life and property in time of emergency."

"Ordinary long-distance calls will continue to be made in the usual manner, but telephone users are still being asked not to make out-of-town calls unless absolutely necessary, and to make even those essential calls, if possible, at other than the busy hours."
